March 7, 2008

BACKGROUND: D.07-10-032 dated October 18, 2007 required investor owned utilities (IOUs) to prepare a single, statewide energy efficiency and demand side management Strategic Plan for 2009-2020. Regarding integrating demand-side management (IDSM), the Commission indicated in this same decision that:

The Plan should present a strategy to integrate measures, programs, policies and actors at all key levels of energy efficiency program design and delivery.

To do this, this portion of the Plan should: (1) address the full range of comprehensive consumer demand-side options, such as demand response, advanced meters, conservation and self-generation; (2) present a systems approach that encompasses all types of measures, programs and activities, including research and development, codes and standards, design, hardware, controls, installation, maintenance, and user behavior; and (3) include a process to engage collaboratively the expertise of market sector professionals and the leadership of key stakeholders.

The Decision clarified that the intent of this direction was to find energy efficiency opportunities in these programs, and, to the extent that energy savings can be directly attributable to the utilities' energy efficiency efforts, count those savings towards achievement of the energy efficiency goals.

The Decision directed the utilities to review the lessons learned from [previous] integrated demand-side management (IDSM) programs as part of the strategic planning process and to maximize the use of such approaches in the Strategic Plan (for further guidance; see pp 31-32 of D. 07-10-032).

SCOPE OF WORKSHOP

Decision 07-10-032 also required Commission Staff to provide guidance to the utilities on the use of multiple funding sources for the marketing and/or delivery of integrated energy services programs, such as reporting requirements by source and proportional share of funds directed toward a given program (p. 75, D. 07-10-032).

Energy Division therefore schedules this workshop to explore these and related IDSM issues. An agenda will be forthcoming.

Parties and other interested stakeholders are asked to review D.07-10-032 and the draft Strategic Plan posted by the joint utilities on February 8th, 2008 prior to the workshop. These documents can be found at http://www.cpuc.ca.gov/PUBLISHED/FINAL_DECISION/74107.htm and www.californiaenergyefficiency.com respectively.
