Presiding Officer's Decision

This is a dispute over direct access customers' credits. The complaint alleges that PG&E failed to give Enron approximately $22 million in credits and, instead, charged Enron $22 million for transportation and distribution service. Enron deposited the $22 million with the Commission. The parties have settled and request dismissal and refund of the $22 million to Enron. Held, dismissal granted and money returned to Enron. The direct access credits were valid and should be applied to T&D charges.
