Officer Bio- Dave Hendrie

David Hendrie's passion for technology began early, long before IT became a mainstream career path. At a young age, he famously disassembled and rebuilt a Commodore 64—an iconic 8-bit home computer of the early 1980s—sparking a lifelong curiosity about how systems work beneath the surface. What began as childhood experimentation quickly evolved into a deep technical aptitude, and by his teenage years, David had become the go-to problem solver for friends and family, often invited over as much for computer repairs as for dinner.

This early hands-on experience laid the foundation for a career rooted in practical problem-solving and innovation. David began his professional IT journey as a Network Administrator for Daewoo Motors America in Compton, CA, where he was responsible for designing and deploying network infrastructure for corporate-owned car dealerships as well as new franchise dealership located across the United States. His role required extensive travel, adaptability, and a strong understanding of scalable, reliable network systems in a fast-paced retail environments.

While at Daewoo Motor America, David began providing network consulting services independently. His reputation for thoughtful design, technical excellence, and responsiveness quickly fueled organic growth, and in 1999 he founded a network consulting company which would become Fireline Network Solutions, Inc. As demand increased, David made the strategic decision to leave his corporate role at Daewoo Motor America and dedicate himself full-time to building his new found business.

Today, David remains deeply hands-on and actively involved in the day-to-day operations of the company. As founder and technical leader, he sets the strategic vision and overall direction while remaining closely connected to evolving technologies and industry trends. He leads the design and development of the company's network infrastructure solutions, blending proven architectures with forward-thinking innovation to meet the unique needs of the network and each client.

David studied Computer Science at UCLA and Electronics at ITT Technical Institute prior to founding Fireline Network Solutions Inc more than 27 years ago. A lifelong learner, he continues to expand his expertise through ongoing research, hands-on design, and real-world implementation. His passion for technology, combined with decades of experience and a client-first mindset, continues to drive the company's success and reputation for excellence.
