TRACERNET CORPORATION CHANTILLY, VIRGINIA
Chief Financial Officer

2001 - 2002

Recruited by investors as an initial member of the senior management team of an early stage software and hardware solution provider that launched its product in 2000

- Worked to secure additional investor funding of $5,800,000 of equity and debt
- Secured $600,000 of short-term receivable financing
- Established a $1.5 million dollar bank operating line of credit.
- Enabled accelerated business growth by securing extended credit agreements with suppliers. Available cash was being reinvested to support unprecedented growth, limiting availability of funds. Negotiated with suppliers for a continuous flow of supplies via a credit arrangement, with the understanding the company would continue purchasing quantities of product.
- Organized and staffed the Accounting, Human Resources and Purchasing departments to support internal growth activities.
- Developed Financial, Inventory Control and Management reporting system that highlighted operating problems and provided performance measurements.
- Managed the order to delivery process of production to meet customer demands with limited resources
- Maintained control on spending to reduce and minimize burn rate

MID-ATLANTIC COMMUNICATIONS WASHINGTON, DC
Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer

1996 – 2000

Joined the Company as part of a 3 member senior management team, establishing the Company's strategic plans, developing both short-term and long term business plans, acquisition plans and marketing strategy. Mid-Atlantic Communications became the third largest Private Cable Operator in the United States.

- Grew the Company 300% from 23,000 homes passed to 100,000 homes passed.
- Provided full assessments and analysis of acquisitions, as well as leading negotiations and the post closing operating transition for the acquired companies. Completed 10 acquisitions totaling 61,000 homes passed. The highlight of the acquisitions was the purchase of the assets of the wireless video provider in Philadelphia which made Mid-Atlantic the largest alternative cable TV provider in the Philadelphia market.
- Managed the conversion of the systems from a wireless technology to a CATV technology
- Originated, expanded and maintained funding relationships. Expanded funding relationships with senior lenders and subordinated lenders to finance the acquisitions and meet internal construction capital needs.
- Oversaw finance, including cost cutting measures to maintain margins. Proposed the elimination of the direct sales force and replaced them with an inexpensive third party solution, which was immensely successful. This decision kept the Company from violating its leverage covenants with its lenders

- Crafted and proposed to the management team the strategy to sell the Company. Implemented the strategy and successfully negotiated and closed the sale to Comcast in 2000 for $150,000,000.
