Good afternoon,

As Zeb notes in his email below, the ALJ Fifth Ruling authorized the Joint Applicants to submit the requested information as a “response,” and accordingly, Cox submitted its information as a “response.” In complying with the ALJ Fifth Ruling as permitted, Cox did not submit testimony for which a witness would be identified.

Thank you.

Hello Alexandra,

The ALJ ruling provided Joint Applicants an opportunity to submit as a response or testimony, and Charter submitted as a response. The ALJ ruling did not require Joint Applicants to identify a sponsor for each response and so Charter has not done so, in keeping with the prior responses to ALJ rulings in this proceeding.

Best,

Zeb Zankel

Good afternoon, Zeb and Marg,

As TURN prepares its cross estimates, it would be helpful to know which of Joint Applicants' witnesses would be prepared to respond to cross-examination questions regarding Charter's and Cox's March 30 supplemental filings. Could we get a list of which witness can respond to cross questions regarding each issue (e.g., reimbursement of service interruptions, low-income plans) covered in Charter's and Cox's filings?

CC'ing other party reps for awareness.

Best,
Alexandra
